Dots in the sections above are a guide to briefing impact

We are letting you know that current issues with our internal testing capability have placed a significant risk on the deployment of Release W Maintenance this weekend 3rd July.

Consequently, to protect live service, we have taken the decision to postpone the release which is now planned for next weekend (10th July).

There will be a minor residual change taking place that will result in a shorter outage on Sunday morning (3rd July)

The detailed system impacts associated with the outage have been notified via the usual standard channels; please refer to those briefings for further information.

The references for those briefings are HD471686 for 20c and for 21CN it is HD471687

We don't expect any other product or services to be impacted by this delay.

Any queries please contact your BT account manager or CRM.
